GENERAL OBREGON IS WOUNDED TREATED WELL IN BERLIN

Left Arm Shot Away and Unconfirmed
Rumors in Washington Claim the Carranza Leader is Dead—Forces
Are Approaching Capital and Great Fight Is Expected.

Washington, June 13.—Although the United States government within the last two weeks has been absorbed in the situation that has arisen with Germany, the interim of a fortnight that will now elapse before a reply comes from Berlin undoubtedly will draw attention to political developments in Mexico.

General Carranza has issued a proclamation claiming that as he now controls a large territory and has instituted civil administration therein, he is logically entitled to recognition. General Villa has sent a note to the United States government favoring President Wilson's recent suggestion that the factions in Mexico unite for peace. He also has made overtures directly to Carranza. Villa claims that he, too, is in possession of a large area of Mexico and that law and order exists within his jurisdiction.

No request is made for recognition of the convention government represented by Villa, but a willingness is expressed to reach an agreement with the other Mexican factions.

Manuel Bonilla, minister of communications in the Carranza cabinet and former governor of the state of Sinaloa, has arrived here as the personal representative of General Villa, bringing dispatches and the note in question which will be transmitted to the state department through Enrique S. Lorente, Washington representative of the convention government. General Carranza also has a number of personal representatives in each faction following a course which it hopes will ultimately secure for itself from the United States the active moral support promised in President Wilson's statement.

Until a secretary of state is appointed to succeed Mr. Bryan, it is not thought there will be any development of the recently announced policy of President Wilson in regard to the Mexicans or some other means would be employed. Meanwhile relief work is being conducted on a large scale by the American Red Cross and military movements are proceeding in Mexico with as much vigor as ever.

The military situation is likely to have an important influence during the coming week on the political side of Mexico's problem. According to official reports of the state department the sweeping claims of victory made by Carranza are refuted and General Villa is still pressing the Carranza forces hard south of Leon. The Carranza forces have been defeated in the wounding of General Obregon, whose left arm was shot away. Rumors were current tonight in Mexico that Carranza had been wounded to his wound, but this was not confirmed.

Benjamin Hill, who was in command of the Carranza forces at Naco last year, a Mexican of foreign descent, now is in charge of the Carranza military operations against General Villa and Angeles in central Mexico.

The Villa troops have been handicapped by a lack of ammunition with which General Hill is said to be well supplied. General Pablo Gonzales, another Carranza commander, is moving toward Mexico City. It is understood that the convention government has about 10,000 troops in the capital and that the approaching Carranza forces probably will be met in the outskirts of the city to decide the question of possession.

C. J. O'Connor, Pacific coast director of the Red Cross, has been directed to proceed to Mexico City to personally direct the Red Cross work there of relieving the starving population.

Naval Station of Austrians Destroyed

Rome, June 13.—The arsenal at the Austro-Hungarian naval station of Pola, on the Adriatic, has been almost entirely destroyed by bombs from an Italian airplane, according to the Messaggero. There were at the time in the arsenal ten warships, including one battleship, two cruisers and several submarines. Some of these vessels are supposed to have been damaged.

SUMMARY OF WAR

In the three weeks that have elapsed since the declaration of war by Italy on Austria, the Italian forces have been making slow but steady progress. The Italian efforts for the time being are directed mainly at Trieste and the peninsula of Istria in which lies Pola, Austria's chief naval station, as their great objective.

The Italians already have occupied important strategic points along the Isonzo river, which they have crossed, and for several days a battle of really large proportions has been in progress in this section of Austrian territory.

From the Italian side it is reported that Pola has been occupied, but this has been denied by the Austrian war office. Pola has been visited by an Italian airplane and according to unofficial reports the arsenal has been almost destroyed by bombs.

The Austrians are said to have brought 45,000 troops and 64 batteries to aid their

Passenger Steamer and Yacht Collide; 2 Killed, 3 Injured

New York, June 13.—In collision between the passenger steamer Bunker Hill and C. K. G. Billings' steam yacht in a dense fog off Hunts Point on Long Island Sound, two men, George H. Kendrick of Boston and John Brown, a member of the Bunker Hill's crew, were killed and three persons were injured. Both vessels were badly damaged and accompanied by tugs made for New York, where the Bunker Hill arrived shortly before midnight.

Mexican Authorities Refuse Entrance to Red Cross Supplies

San Antonio, Tex., June 13.—For the second time within the past week Mexican authorities have rejected offers by the American Red Cross society to send relief supplies to the starving people of Mexico. Today at Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, Villista, General Rosalio Hernandez, commanding the district of Monclova and the Rio Grande, refused to permit J. C. Weller, special agent of the American Red Cross society to ship a car of beans to Monclova. Three days ago Hernandez had told American Consul W. P. Blocker of Eagle Pass that not only would he be glad to allow the supplies to proceed unimpeded to Monclova, but that the railroad, which is under military control, would furnish free transportation for them.

Two Mexicans Killed in Clash on Border With Texas Rangers

Brownsville, Texas, June 13.—Two Mexicans dead, one probably fatally and three slightly wounded is the result of a fight, first between two Mexicans, and later between Mexicans and officers on a ranch fourteen miles from here this afternoon. The dead are Juan N. Guerra and a man named Benavides.

The trouble, according to information received at the sheriff's office here, first started between several Mexicans in an argument over a horse race, during which Guerra shot and killed Benavides. When Deputy Sheriff C. C. Monahan with Texas Rangers Phelps and Edwards and several other officers, attempted to arrest Guerra, a general fight with pistols between officers and a number of Mexicans ensued. Guerra was killed and four other Mexicans wounded in this fight. None of the officers was hurt, according to reports here tonight.

NO CHANGE IN THE SITUATION ALONG THE DNIESTER RIVER

HEAVY FIGHTING CONTINUES.

IN BALTIC IS ALMOST CONTINU-AL AND EACH SIDE LOSE.

SCENE CHANGED IN GALICIA

Germans, Balked in Their Effort to Reach Lemberg From the South,
Have Commenced Attack on the Russians on the River San—Reports
From Other Fronts.

London, June 13.—Both in the Baltic provinces and along the Dniester river heavy fighting continues between the Russians and Austrians and Germans without, however, any material change in the situation. The movement forward and backward of the battle lines in the Baltic provinces is almost continual and each side has at various times held the advantage.

In Galicia the scene of the fighting has changed. The Germans balked in their effort to reach Lemberg from the south, have commenced an attack on the Russians on the river San north of Przemyel and along the Dniester in Southeastern Galicia and on their right they claim to have been successful in both sectors. The movement in the southeast resembles that which failed further up the Dniester at Zurawa, but is on a wider scale. The right of the Austro-German army is only twenty miles from Rumanian frontier while its left reaches as far as Halez, where many attacks have been delivered against a bridgehead. The center of the operations in Kolomea from which point the Austro-Germans have carried the Teutonic allies across the Dniester in several places are being launched.

Simultaneously the Germans are proceeding with their attack on the Russian center on the river Rawka, west of Warsaw, where they have also been successful according to their report. In the western zone artillery engagements are in progress from the sea to the Wevoe and even beyond that district with here and there infantry fighting. A big German offensive was predicted several days ago, but it is still expected. With Monfalcone and Gradisca in their hands, the Italians have begun an attack on Gorizia (Gorze) further up the Isonzo river and one of the Austrians' most strongly fortified frontier positions. The Italians already have cut the communication north and south of this town.

Russian Official Statement.

Petersburg, June 13.—A Russian statement under date of June 12, says: "North of Shavil, in the district of Szukimovo, we yesterday attacked and repulsed a strong German column, the enemy's outflanking column. Near Shavil he continues his fruitless attacks in the sector of the northern battlefield."

On the Russian front the front of Szallany-Belsagola continued to develop with success. Yesterday we carried by storm several villages and a cemetery near Bourade-Jouquay. The day before on this front our columns carried the enemy on horseback and captured about one hundred prisoners. In the direction of Kovno the enemy is endeavoring to secure the front of Szukimovo. On Thursday night in this district, we pushed back the enemy for some distance on the Mariampol road and along the railroad from Kovno to Wirballen (Rusian) Polarsk. In the region of Strozobry the enemy opened an intense artillery fire at dawn yesterday as a preliminary to a series of attacks. Up to midday the enemy did not succeed in approaching nearer than 400 paces from our trenches. Our air squadron made reconnaissance and dropped bombs with success, thus contributing materially to repulse the enemy attacks on this front.

"In Galicia yesterday in the valley of the river Sklo an enemy motor battery advanced toward our trenches and was forced to retreat by our heavy artillery."

"In three days' battle on the Dniester river in the region of Zurawa from June 8 to June 10, we captured altogether 248 officers and 15,431 soldiers, with 78 machine guns and 17 cannon. A large quantity of material was captured."

14,500 Street Car Men in Chicago go out on Strike

Chicago, June 13.—A strike of the 14,500 employees of the surface and elevated traction systems was ordered at midnight. The men were directed to finish their runs and return their cars to the barns.

The strike was called after an all-day conference over the question of increased wages which the men insisted must be guaranteed before arbitration could be considered.

TONE OF AMERICAN NOTE TO GERMANY—HAVE MORE CON-FIDENCE IN INTENTIONS THAN DID SECRETARY OF STATE.

One Paper Suggests That He Probably Was Glad of an Excuse to Get Out of an Unsatisfactory Situation.
Various Other Opinions Are Expressed.

Washington, June 13.—Comment by the press of Europe on the recent American note to Germany attracted much attention in official and diplomatic quarters here today and in the absence of information concerning the probable attitude of the German government, it was the chief subject for speculation.

The editorials of the German press were read with particular interest by officials who drew much encouragement from the references to the note's friendly tone. High officials have felt that if a spirit of friendliness could be maintained throughout the negotiations efforts to convince Germany of the legality of the American position ultimately would be successful.

The careful phrasing of the late American note is known to have been the purpose of stating the demands of the United States very clearly, in such a fashion as would not entangle the American position in a satisfactory to her own public as well as the United States. The important thing which the German government and other utterances more desirous of adding the United States was of peace to the European conflict. The United States is anxious to see the German government here that the German government will not misconstrue American demands into any effort to interfere with the operations of marine warfare if these can be conformed to accepted rules of international law as they affect neutral countries for a peaceful outcome of present difficulty were believed well informed quarters to be improving daily.

An statement of submarine warfare on passenger ships would contribute materially toward a peaceful settlement and some officials have seemed to see already signs of a restriction of the activity of German submarines to craft of such size as to make it readily possible to save the crews.

The fact that the German press is divided as to the policy that ought to be pursued is regarded hopefully here. It is pointed out in diplomatic quarters friendly to the German cause that with arrival in Berlin of Anton Meyer, German ambassador, a full statement of the state of American public opinion and suggestions for a compromise will bring about a better feeling in all quarters in Berlin.

Former Secretary Bryan has been today to Old Point Comfort. On there was little comment on the official quarters and it was expected that the softening of his resignation, he said, would not be considered that the document was sufficiently changed to be presented in final form, but the president himself had expressed a farewell meeting with him an hour before the note was made public. The secretaries of state, especially because of the possible misconception in Germany of the change at this time.

Berlin, June 13, Via Cable.—The Sunday morning newspaper of Berlin generally professes inability to understand the American position.

Leonard M. Busby, president of the Chicago surface lines, announced that the strike would be made to run until Tuesday. Under the 1907 ordinance the surface lines are not required to operate in a strike. Records show an average of three million persons depend on the lines for daily transportation, of whom 500,000 use the surface and 800,000 the elevated lines.

The union plan of arbitration submitted last night would involve a direct wage increase of more than $750,000, according to the report of the union, and the companies refused to concede.

BERLIN PAPERS DO NOT SEE A REASON FOR BRYAN'S ACT

Understand the motives prompting W. J. Bryan to retire from the post of secretary of state. The Morgen Post says:

"The former secretary seems to have less confidence than we in the honest desire of the American government to arrive at a peaceful compromise with us. Mr. Bryan is convinced that President Wilson and his government finally will appeal to force. We are not now disposed to believe this."

The Boersen Zeitung says: "Bryan's resignation has been interpreted as indicating the note would be rather blunt, however, it is no wise the case. Therefore, Bryan's desire to be the representative of peaceful efforts in opposition to jingoistic tendency of the American government, we really do not know on what ground he will base his assertions."

The Boersen Zeitung terms Mr. Bryan's proclamation to the people even harder to understand than his resignation.

The Tagblatt suggests that practical political differences played a part in the resignation. The Reichsbote, commenting on the American note, says:

"Either the tone was subdued following Bryan's sensational resignation or Bryan described to take advantage of an opportunity to escape easily from a situation which no longer was pleasant."

The Deutsche Rundschau says: "After seeing the note, it must be said that Mr. Bryan either was hasty or else other reasons yet unknown decided his action."

The morning papers generally comment more or less unfavorably on the American note along the lines followed by the Saturday evening papers. While there is a general disposition to recognize its friendly tone and the

URGES THAT COTTON BE SOLD GRADUALLY

GOVERNOR VAN ZANDT OF FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD SUGGESTS PLAN OF AID.

No Gold Pool to Help Handle the Crop and Therefore Banks Must Use Caution.

Dallas, Tex., June 13.—Governor R. T. Van Zandt of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank, has issued the following:

Believing that the matter of properly warehousing cotton by the producer, in order to accomplish a gradual marketing of same, is of vital importance to the business interests of the Eleventh Federal Reserve district, I have prepared a circular suggesting that steps be taken in this direction, which I am sending to the banks throughout the district. The circular is as follows:

It is only a few weeks until that leader of all commodities, cotton, will begin to come to market and the annual question of how the crop is to be financed will be before us. Last year we had the Aldrich-Vreeland currency act and the one hundred million dollar gold pool to assist us, yet even with these supports, a very great percentage of the crop was disposed of by the producer at six cents and under.

This year we have no emergency currency law and that expires on June 30 of this year, we have no gold pool as that has been dissolved, and the markets of the world where the greater portion of our crop is disposed of are tighter than ever. Shipping is hazardous and many foreign markets are closed on account of the great European conflict now being waged. Should our immense crop of cotton be forced on the market as it is gathered, as has been the custom in the past, the price obtained by the producer would be small and he would bear the cost of production if not below the actual cost of gathering and marketing.

Our only hope of obtaining a fair price for cotton is through a gradual marketing of the crop and the banks of the country, assisted by the federal reserve banks, must use their best efforts to keep the farmer from having to accept distress prices. Banks are not justified, however, in rendering assistance to those customers who desire to hold any part of their cotton which is exposed to weather damage or which is stored where insurance can not be obtained.

It is the custom of many banks to advance money on the growing crop, and especially in this case where the farmer has no property subject to execution. If the borrower will realize the value of his collateral and place it where it will not deteriorate he can readily obtain a renewal of his paper, substituting his warehouse receipt for the chattel mortgage.

The time is too short, between now and the gathering of the cotton, in order to provide adequate warehouse facilities to care for the entire production, and, therefore, much will have to be sold at whatever price is offered, as soon as it is ginned, but we have no objection to the proper warehousing of a large percentage of our crop.

Our purpose in writing you at this time is to urge immediate action on your part in having all cotton raisers in your section who will want to store a part of their crop to make arrangements for said storage before it is too late.

Please keep constantly in mind the fact that among the classes of eligible paper described by the federal reserve board as being most highly desirable is that "secured by approved warehouse receipts covering readily marketable staples."

We assure you that in discounting for our member banks this class of paper will be given every consideration by our executive committee. It will not be the policy of this committee to accept notes secured by cotton unless same is properly stored and insured, and preference will be shown in favor of that stored in public or bonded warehouses.

If the federal reserve bank is to assist you to the extent of its ability it will be necessary for you to get as much of your paper as is possible in shape to meet its requirements—and do it now.

First Car Load of Watermelons Arrives

The first car of watermelons to be shipped in the state of Texas this season was received in Waco yesterday by C. H. Cox and company. The melons came from Hallett, Tex., and were sent by W. A. RECEIVED PRAISE FROM CARNEGIE

W. B. Hall, Signal Repair Man on Panhandle Route, for Past Nine Years.

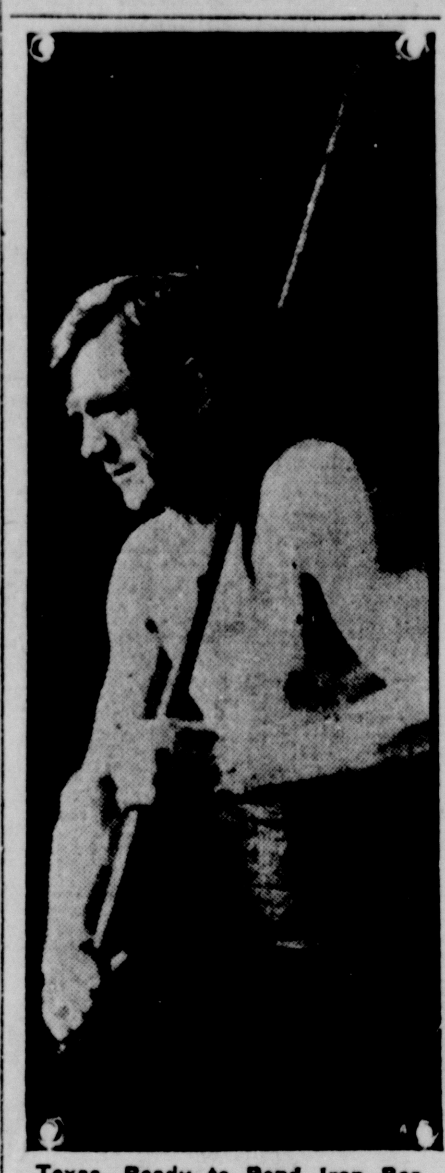

One of the most recent statements received regarding the new system tonic, Plant Juice, now being introduced here, which verifies the claims made for this preparation, is a signed testimonial from Mr. W. B. Hall, who lives at No. 21 Third Ave., Carnegie, Pa. Mr. Hall has been the signal repair man on the Panhandle route for many past years and is known by the railroad men. He said:

"I had been a sick man for a long time—just able to 'drag myself around' and keep at work. My food fermented and the gas would bloat me something awful. My bowels would not move for three or four days at a time and I was in bad shape. Medicine did not help me, and I think I had tried them all, until I began to use Plant Juice. It benefited me from the first dose and I have now had no more stomach trouble, catarrh or constipation."

Plant Juice is sold in Waco at W. B. Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store, where it is being introduced and its merits explained.

Big Crowd Drawn by Texas Ritchie at New Orleans

"Texas" Ritchie's parade attracted crowds that blocked traffic in New Orleans, according to the Times-Picayune. He will give his parade in Waco Thursday noon, and will haul several wagons loaded with girls, by a rope tied around his neck, starting from in front of the Morning News office. The parade in New Orleans is described as follows by the Times-Picayune:

The thousands of people who crowded the streets of New Orleans Monday to witness the wonderful "strength show" of "Texas, the Gentlemanly Gorilla," are still marveling at the exhibition given by that modern "Samson."

Owing to a short delay in the delivery of the wagons which the "strong man" was to pull through the streets, the parade did not start from in front of the Morning News office until a few minutes after 1 o'clock. By this time the streets for several squares were so crowded that traffic was delayed and the mounted police were called out to clear the way for the parade. After seating a band of twelve musicians on the first float and placing Miss Marie Neville and Mrs. Ritchie (Texas' wife) on the second float, the gentlemanly Gorilla delivered an oration on strength and right living to the applauding crowd.

A few minutes later "Texas" placed himself on the rear seat of his auto with his face to the sun, and adjusted the rope around his neck. The signal was then given to start. A minute later the three exceedingly large drags could be seen to move very slowly away from the Times-Picayune office and up Camp street to Canal. The crowd, which was growing larger every minute, in its anxiety to see the "strongest man in the world" again blocked the street, and the "parade" was once more compelled to await the arrival of the police.

A near riot was now on and Miss Neville, who was assisted by a number of Chicago artists to be a perfect thirty-six, became the center of attraction. Dressed in a beautiful black and white gown, picture hat, and carrying a parasol, she was the perfect woman, and it can be safely asserted that the artists of New Orleans, had there been any present, would have agreed with the Chicago boys.

The streets were again cleared and the parade started for Canal street, but after proceeding for about a square the developed engine trouble, and it took for a moment as though it would be necessary to secure another machine to carry the "strong man." After a little work and much ado the engine was again started and the show went on its way once more. Everything went well until the second float, carrying the "perfect woman," reached the middle car track on Canal street, when without warning, the rope slipped from the "Gorilla's" neck and the floats were left standing in the center of the busiest thoroughfare in town. Once more the crowd rushed the wagon, only to be driven back by the police, and after a short delay the rope was around "Texas' neck and the "strong man's show" was again on its way.

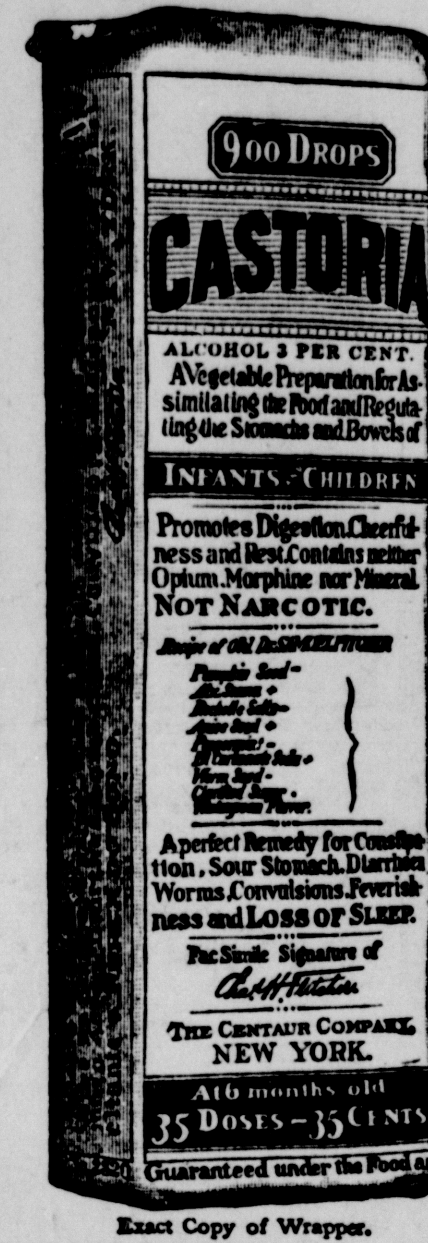

Moving picture machines were much in evidence, and it is rumored that many of the stops, made up to this point, were for the purpose of allowing Texas to get in the pictures. The parade continued on up Canal street to St. Charles, where another stop was made, but this time it was merely to permit the "strong man" to take a glass of water. Texas claims to be a prohibitionist. The crowd was growing so rapidly that one would have thought it was carnival time, and it was necessary to have the mounted police ride with the "passing show." Full speed was called for and the heavy wagons shot forward only to come to a sudden stop a few minutes later, just as the "band stand" reached Dauphine street. This time the axle of the auto had broken, and it was with greatest difficulty that the special guards cleared the way for the passage of the hundreds of "jitneys" and street cars which were lined up along Canal street.

The gentlemanly Gorilla stood up in the car and announced to the applauding crowd that owing to the unforeseen accident he would be unable to pull the "largest load" ever undertaken by a man farther. The drags were then turned into Dauphine street and the "passing show of strength" was the first have and I have now had no more stomach trouble, catarrh or constipation."

Mis Neville and the "Gentlemanly Gorilla" will give various exhibitions and strength tests at the Hippodrome every evening this week. This young woman, whom competent critics claim is better developed than Annette Kellerman, will pose for a series of sketches to be drawn by Sarvis King, one of the best known young Chicago artists.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless; Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food; Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Oastor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

Elm Street Revival Is Formally Opened

Before a congregation that almost filled the large tent erected by the Elm street Methodist church in East Waco, Rev. T. N. Lowrey, evangelist, opened the revival meeting yesterday morning by preaching a strong sermon on the subject, "Godliness is Profitable in the Life That Now is and in the Life to Come."

He talked first about whether or not it pays to be religious, and said that it paid in this world, not to speak of the world to come. He gave instances, socially, morally, mentally and physically of how right living paid and pointed out how it paid in different vocations.

As his text he took 1 Timothy 4, 8. In closing, he made a stirring appeal to so live that a life beyond the grave would be assured.

BROTHERHOOD OF MAN, TOPIC TABERNACLE IS WELL FILLED UNION MEETING AT NIGHT

Taking Text From Story of Cain and Abel, Minister Points Out True Manner of Living.

The Columbus Street Baptist church was well filled yesterday morning for the annual memorial service of the Knights of Pythias. Members of Cowan lodge met at Castle Hall and marched to the church, where a special section was reserved for them.

Rev. F. S. Groner, pastor of the church, preached on "The Brotherhood of Man," taking his text from Gen. 4:3, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" He said in part as follows:

"Eye has never seen nor mind can never conceive the beauties of Eden in its pristine glory, and the happiness of man therein as he came from the Father's hand. And this bliss was multiplied a hundred fold by the advent of Eve in all her perfection of beauty and grace.

"But we have a change from this picture. Eve was tempted and fell. They were driven from this beautiful garden.

At first they were attended by remorse and bitter retrospection, but then they were blessed of God by the gift of Cain and again by the gift of Abel.

"But Cain, the first man born of woman, was destined to be a murderer, and the second man born of woman, Abel, was to be the victim. When Cain spoke to Cain and asked him where his brother was, Cain told the first lie ever breathed on earth by saying 'I know not' and proceeded to huri this defiance at God, which I use as my text today, 'Am I my brother's keeper?'"

"The Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man is a distinctive and essential doctrine of the New Testament. 'Ye have one Father in heaven and all ye are brethren.' And Christ taught us in his model prayer to say 'Our Father, which art in heaven.'"

All Men Brothers. "Every man is our brother, whether he be the Mongolian, who worships his ancestors, or the Hindoo, who worships his idol, or the African, who worships Jehovah, or the Christian, who worships Jehovah, or the infidel who worships no God but lives in darkness and dies in tears.

"Time was when each nation and tribe had its own gods, but now all civilized nations bow at the altar of and sing anthems unto the same God, even Emmanuel mighty to save. The nation is one great family of municipalities, and the municipalities one great family of families.

"Every man is his brother's keeper. Cain's defiant answer was 'Am I my brother's keeper?' He thought that it was presumptuous folly for him to be regarded as his brother's keeper but that it was perfectly consistent for him to become his brother's murderer.

Keeper or Enemy. "If you are not your brother's keeper then you are your brother's enemy. Christ said, 'If you are not for me you are against me.' Every man can say as much to every other man. You cannot occupy neutral ground for to the extent of your indifference you are against him.

"Many men today prove by their lives that they do not regard their selves as the brother's keeper. They make use of the words of Cain but they will use words very synonymous. King Saul showed that he did not think himself his brother's keeper when he tried to slay David. It was also the same in the case of the good Samaritan by those who passed by on the other side without giving the necessary help to the injured man.

It may not always be possible to change the condition of those who are in life's stress, but we can always lighten those burdens by brotherly sympathy. The cup was not taken away from Jesus but an angel appeared and strengthened him.

"Blessed are the peace-makers. I would not transgress where I have sinned. Blessed are the happiness-makers. Blessed is the man who goeth about with a noble motive in his heart and gentle words on his lips and hands ready to do kind deeds. Such are God's torch bearers, sent to those who sit in darkness.

Damon and Pythias. "A real friend is one who will protect you at all hazards. Jesus is such a friend. You remember when the soldiers led by Judas came to him to carry him to prison. He steps between the soldiers and his disciples and asks, 'Whom seek ye?' And at their reply says, 'I am he. Leave these in peace.'

"It was a custom among the knights and dames of England in the days of chivalry to hang out a helmet over their castle as a sign for succor and protection.

"In the story of Damon and Pythias on which this lodge is founded, we find friendship in its truest sense and you are to carry out this among your fellows. Pythias was to be slain. He needs must go home to settle his affairs and bring his wife and children the last good-bye. Damon offers to stay as hostage for Pythias. If Pythias does not return Damon is to be slain in his stead. Hours pass into days, days into weeks, weeks into months, and yet Pythias does not return. The day before the execution arrives and he is not here. The day and hour approaches for Damon to die in Pythias' stead, when lo! in the distance is seen a rider on the fleetest of horses and he is saying, 'Let Damon free! I am Pythias.' Pythias had returned and the king was so struck with Pythias' loyalty to his friend that he frees not only Damon but Pythias as well.

In conclusion, Dr. Groner urged each person present to make life worth living, saying that he who lives only to himself is already dead. "All if it be true," he said, "that in this world of sin and bitter disappointment there is for every Abel a Cain to slay him, for every Esau a Jacob to devour him and for every Joseph brother to betray him, up yonder, at least, there will be a Jonathan for every David, for every Damon a faithful Pythias, and for every sinner an all glorious Savior."

Duty of Church to Bring Gospel to Community Is Stressed by Pastor.

"Caring for the Crowd" was the subject of the morning sermon yesterday which opened the series of revival services to be held under the tabernacle built on the lawn of the First Baptist church by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Dawson. The pastor said in part:

"Upon this occasion the crowd was weary and hungry, and it was nearly night. The multitude had not had anything to eat throughout the day. They were a great lot of people as stumbling sheep without a leader, and they had come to look upon Jesus as a leader.

"I wonder if the mass of people around us are not as sheep without a shepherd, with that hunger in their hearts and longing in their souls for knowledge of the Savior? There never was an age in which there was so much religious hunger as at this very hour. We ourselves could no more feed this crowd than the Atlantic ocean could be filled by a June shower.

The employees of the railroads, department stores and shops cry out, 'Give us to eat.' Are we going to answer their cry of hunger by giving them a stone or offering them a serpent? Before the feeding of this five thousand the disciples said, 'Send them away.' They were regarded as intruders. 'It's no concern of ours,' they said. 'Let them do for themselves.'

"That is the spirit sometimes manifest today. It is still 'No concern of ours.' The disciples didn't want the cry of this motley crowd to interfere with their pleasure for they had come there to rest. And when the Savior said, 'Give them to eat,' they replied, 'Master, it is an impossibility with only five loaves and two fishes.'

"If I were Henry Drummond, a Gypsy Smith or a Billy Sunday I might do something. Listen to the Master. 'Give ye them to eat.' There is nothing more characteristic of the Savior than His compassion for the masses. Jesus in compassionating the crowd preached to the crowd.

He preached in the vernacular—there was no formalities about it nor any proprieties to be respected. Our Savior is equal to any emergency. When He faced Lazarus after being in the tomb for three days He was equal to the test. He was equal to the emergency when nailed to the cross.

"When the disciples were scattered abroad and persecuted Jesus came what to do, with their uncertainty and uneasiness, Christ raised up a great leader, Martin Luther. He knew what he would do. Billy Sunday fairly shook the millions with the spirit of God and 45,000 conversions were made, university professors as well as artisans—Christ knew what he would do. He is equal to our task, brother, for these five loaves and two fishes that you may see what they can accomplish.

"What do we as a church owe the throngs of Waco? We owe them first of all spiritual work. When they come here they will not find a congregation of horelings.

"Remember that the power to feed this multitude came from God and was exercised through the disciples. Some of us hear people decry organization. God is a God of organization. He is supreme over the body which is an organization and the church is this organization. On this occasion Christ organized. His forces. Bring what you have, let Jesus use it with what will be plenty for you with much to spare, and God will put such a blessing on the First Baptist church of Waco that the whole world will be blessed."

There were six additions to the church yesterday. By a vote of 10 to 0 the church doors were opened to the members of the Edgefield mission.

Prof. Evans of Baylor led the music and Mr. Gaylord Bebout sang a solo. Also Mr. and Mrs. Bebout gave a duet entitled "Love Divine," which was enjoyed by all present. There was an unusually large attendance.

Four Congregations Take Part in the Service—Letters of Congratulation Are Read.

Yesterday marked the sixtieth anniversary of the organization of the First Presbyterian church of Waco. At both morning and evening services the occasion was fittingly observed. It had been announced that at the morning service Dr. Samuel A. King, former pastor of the church for forty years, would preach, and in the congregation could be seen the faces of many old citizens and friends of the aged pastor. Some were those who had known and loved him as a neighbor. Others were the children and grandchildren of his parents, who had been members of the church and had been performed by him. Many were members of other denominations.

Although feeble in physique and his voice weak from age, the minister's sermon was delivered in clear, concise logic and in admirable diction.

Dr. King took for his text the latter portion of the thirty-first verse of the sixteenth chapter of Acts, referring to the conversion of the jailer at Philippi. He said in part:

Salvation Through Christ. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." I have taken as my text, which tells the simple old story that is ever new. I may reasonably expect that today is the last time I may be permitted to speak to you, and I find my heart and mind directed to the same line of thought—preached to you on former anniversaries—the salvation which comes through belief in Jesus Christ. This was and is the only answer to the cry, 'Sir, what must I do to be saved?'

"I want to talk to you today as plainly as I can about the gospel. There was a miracle attending the conversion of Paul and the conversion of the Philippian jailer. The conversion was more miraculous than the conversion of you or me. A miracle is a work of grace, and in that sense all conversions are miracles. I wish to tell you a story of a friend of mine who was struck by lightning. I told him that the lightning only did for Paul what his own training in a Christian home had done for him. Jesus Christ is the living power of God. Christ is the only power which saves.

"It is not enough to believe in Jesus Christ, but believe on Him. Jesus is both God and man, and he is the Savior of sinners; he is a divine Savior, not only is Jesus a divine Savior but he is deity, a part of God and equal with the Father. Jesus is a model of wisdom and truth, he is bound in consistency to accept what he says about himself as being equal with God, that himself is as much entitled to credence as he said about anything else. No one can accept Christ as the greatest teacher and the one perfect man, and reject his claims about his divinity. Without belief in the divinity of Jesus Christ and his immaculate conception, no one has the right to claim himself a follower of Christ.

Three Divisions of History. "The history of the human race resolves itself into three divisions—creation, providence and redemption. Creation was supernatural; providence was supernatural, and it follows that redemption must be supernatural. These are the characteristics of a miracle. It is a wonder, an act of power, and given for a sign. Christ's miraculous conception was a wonder, it was a manifestation of power, and it was a sign that he was that of both man and God. As a man he wept at the grave of Lazarus, as God he spoke those words which brought the dead to life. What is in any word similar to the word 'believe,' it is the word 'trust.' That was when this jailer was bidden to, to trust Jesus Christ. 'Faith works by love, purifies the heart and overcomes the world. Faith in Jesus is a saving grace whereby we receive and rest on Jesus alone for salvation as he is offered to us in the gospel. To receive Jesus Christ is to accept the truth about him. I know in whom I have believed and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.'

There are heights and depths of the Christian doctrine made up of facts. It is not a theory, but a fact that Christ can save a sinner. 'Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.' Heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Let us turn to Christ and rest on him as he is given to you in the gospel, and you shall be saved.

"Brethren, my mission is done. I feel that responsibility which I minister to today. As the last of my life I spend I extend this invitation in my master's name, to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, to cast your sins upon him and he will save you to the uttermost."

Union Evening Service. At the evening service, the Second Presbyterian church of Waco, together with the Presbyterian church of Robinsonville, united with the First Presbyterian church in Waco to celebrate the 60th anniversary. On the pulpit were Revs. Samuel A. King, J. J. Grier, E. E. Ingram, C. W. Peyton of Belton and C. T. Caldwell.

Letters were read from the various organizations formed from the membership of the First Presbyterian church, and addresses were delivered by the visiting ministers.

The Robinsonville church was represented by its former pastor, Rev. Peyton. This church was organized from the first church membership in 1854. The Second Presbyterian church, which is also a child of the First Presbyterian church, was represented in the pulpit by its pastor, Rev. J. J. Grier. It was organized in 1893.

Rev. Ingram spoke for the Central Presbyterian church, which, though not a child of the First church, was a sister in the church work. He emphasized the fact that all church denominations in the religious faith are working to a common end, and that the time would come when at least all Presbyterian churches should become united. He brought greetings and congratulations from the members of his church.

During the sixty years of its existence the First church has enjoyed a steady growth in numbers and religious influence. This is now the third building in which it has been housed. Many notable ministers have from time to time gone out from its membership, among whom are Rev. John B. McCall, pastor of the church at Hillsboro; Rev. Julian Slocum, pastor at McGregor; Rev. Robert F. Gribble, now instructor in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Austin, and Rev. Stonewall Jackson McCall of Oklahoma.

Dr. Caldwell spoke briefly of the various activities of the church, including its missionary representatives in foreign fields, and Dr. King made the closing talk of the evening.

Waco Petroleum Stock Goes Higher

Stock in the Waco Petroleum company is now selling at $5 per share, an advance from $1 first sold, and only one thousand shares are being offered by the general offices of the company here, says John C. Collins, who is with the company. The Waco Petroleum company has 12,000 acres under lease in the Healdton field in Oklahoma, with a well now showing oil, and of which the driller reports that he is confident of bringing in a gusher. The company has 4100 acres under lease or contract in the Malone field, its first well in this field having reached a depth of 1113 feet. Experts are confident of good results from both of these fields.

Mr. Collins was in good humor last night, having had good news from his Oklahoma drills. Collins says: "We have two oil fields in Oklahoma worth thirty million dollars, and one in Texas, close at hand, that is going to astonish the Wacoites some day, but it's hard to convince any one of this fact. You must prove it, which we will do within 90 days."

"Seventeen years ago I located the now famous Caddo oil fields, but for now years could not convince any one it was a great oil field, but she has made good. About a year ago while in Gainesville, scouting, I advised several others that within a year or so a great oil refinery would be located at that place. It was ridiculed, but she is building, and a million dollar refinery is now under construction."

"Now, I make this prediction: Within two years Waco will have a million dollar oil refinery, and the production from oil fields within a radius of four miles will produce over one hundred thousand barrels of oil monthly, with thousands of feet of gas. Waco has all the natural gas she will ever want within 16 miles of its city limits, and gas can be sold in this city at 16c per 1000 ft. cubic ft. With this cheap fuel, oil and gas, Waco should be the leading manufacturing city of Texas."

When asked what he thought of the South Boston showing, Collins replied: "They have not got into the pool yet, but they will in time. I have great faith in Malone, and feel confident our well now drilling will produce six barrels of oil per day, and I only believe South Boston is going to make good, and you will find the Waco Petroleum drilling in that field within 60 days."

Boy Scout Camp Has Many Visitors

Announcement of visitors' day at the Boy Scouts' camp yesterday brought out a large number of the parents and friends of the boys. The visitors brought several freezers of ice cream, which added to the big dinner that had been prepared by the camp cooks for the boys and their visitors, made a feast the boys will not soon forget. All the boys attended Sunday school in the camp yesterday morning. Prof. Charles Parker directed the Boy Scouts' band in a sacred concert at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

The afternoon was spent by the boys in conducting their visitors over the camp, showing them all the intricacies of pitching a tent correctly and laying out a camp in military style. The swimming races will be held today, winners to receive blue ribbons to be worn during the remainder of the camp as emblems of their prowess. Remarkable progress has been made by the boys in the water under the direction of competent teachers. There is not a boy in the camp who cannot swim.

Band Concert Draws Large Crowds to Cotton Palace Park

With the thermometer registering near a hundred most of yesterday afternoon, it was too hot for comfort indoors and everybody who could spent the day in the open. Cotton Palace park was the Mecca for a large number, as the Bettis band gave its regular Sunday afternoon concert there.

Long before the time set for the first number hundreds of Waco citizens were enjoying the cool shade, while the children laughed and frolicked in the sand piles, on the chutes or in the big swings. The concert was by Prof. Bettis and his musicians and several encores were demanded and graciously given.

But not all of the pleasure-seekers went to Cotton Palace park. Many went to the Cameron park. Picnic parties abounded over its wooded slopes and dells. Automobiles after automobile load went spinning out of the smooth roads to find out spots in the country and many visited either the Y. M. C. A. or the Boy Scout camp.

Incidentally, of course, a large crowd was out to see the Navigators get sweet revenge by defeating the Oilers in a classy baseball game, replete with brilliant plays.

Double Duel Still on in the Majors

New York, June 13.—The double duel for the lead in the American and National Leagues was continued during the week with varying fortunes, the week finding Philadelphia in top position in the National and Chicago heading the Americans.

Of the two Chicago teams in the league, the White Sox made slightly the better of it, holding their lead, although getting nothing better than an even break, whereas the Cubs lost more games than they won and relinquished their premiership. The American Leaguers found the going easy in New York, but encountered thornier paths in Boston and Washington. Meanwhile, Detroit was finding the Bostonians equally hard to beat. The "Jennings" men were thus forced to surrender their leadership after one day's occupancy.

Clark Griffith's team made the record for the week in games won, and finished faster than any other team in either league. Washington showed notably improved form, passing New York into the first division. The remaining clubs in the league seem already out of the running even for first division honors.

Fortunes of National League teams ran remarkably even during the week. Only the Philadelphia did better than the average and only the New Yorks did worse.

Boy Scout Council to Meet June 22

The regular monthly meeting of the Boy Scout council will not be held until Friday night, June 22, on account of the boys and several members of the council now being in camp. A president is to be elected, various committees appointed and several important matters transacted at that time.

CIVIC EDUCATION FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Over fifty mayors of our largest cities have appointed mayor's committees as part of the national movement to make the Fourth of July, 1915 "Americanization Day," says Dr. P. P. Claxton, U. S. commissioner of education, who is in hearty sympathy with the idea.

"Americanization Day" is a patriotic call to all citizens, American born and foreign born alike, adults and children, to rally to American ideals, purposes and common interests of many people united into one nation.

These mayor's committees represent the city government, naturalization officials, boards of education, city clubs, women's patriotic and civic organizations, social agencies, patriotic societies and benevolent and fraternal organizations of foreign born residents. These committees are arranging citizenship reception for newly naturalized citizens and a national Americanization day committee is assisting these mayor's committees.

Among the features for this occasion already adopted by various cities is the giving of special admission tickets for them and their families so that, on entering the auditorium, they will be ushered to a special raised platform on the stage. For American national airs have been rendered by a band, orchestra or singing societies, the pledge of allegiance will be recited in unison as the American flag is unfurled and the entire audience stands and salutes the colors. Several cities are planning pageants or tableaux presented in vivid form from American history; moving picture films like "Uncle Sam at Work" will be shown.

Among the things the speakers on this occasion will emphasize are: That every foreign speaking person in America should learn English by attending the public schools, because the English language is the master key to American opportunities and life, and the first step to real citizenship; that every illiterate immigrant should learn to read and write, so that he can read American newspapers and attend personally to his business matters; and that adults and children, native and foreign born, be given civic training in both evening and day schools, so that every one in our country will understand the functions of our government, the principles of democracy and for what America stands.

New York and St. Louis, through their public schools, have planned to have a special civic lesson on Flag Day, June 14, for the school children. These children will learn from their teachers the history of the American flag, what it represents, and the "Declaration of Independence" as a "Declaration of Citizenship" will be explained. Full particulars of the local citizenship reception on the Fourth of July will be given and each child will be requested to invite his parents to take him to the Americanization day celebration.

The schools have an opportunity not heretofore offered, to co-operate with naturalization officials, mayor's committees and others and should seek to place school facilities at their disposal to make the coming Fourth of July not only a celebration of our independence, but a day for strengthening the American spirit of nationality and uniting all classes, creeds and races into one intelligent democracy.

Since Judge Wilcox has made permanent the injunction against the payment for the chicken salad and punch enjoyed at Governor Colquitt's reception, supposedly at the public expense, and the retirement of William Jennings Bryan removes the principal advocate of grape juice from the cabinet at Washington, water will no doubt become the official drink at all functions of state at Austin and Washington. And why not? There is nothing better.

Mr. Bryan is reputed to be very keen after the coin of the realm, but he has not yet realized that there are some times when "Silence is golden."

AN IMPROVED OUTLOOK.

The friendly tone of the last American note and its friendly reception by some of the leading German papers indicates that the way is now open to a satisfactory settlement of the differences that have arisen between the United States and Germany over the treatment accorded American ships and citizens sailing upon the high seas. The German papers still cling to the idea of arbitration and declare they do not care to enter into negotiations where all the concessions must be made by one side, but the justice of the American demands is so clearly defined that we cannot see how the German government can do else than grant them, especially when those demands are couched in such unmistakably friendly terms.

In the expression of one of the German papers there is a suggestion that there is as much for the United States to do in protecting the lives of American subjects as there is for Germany. But that is not the expression of the German government and in view of the assurance of this government's good offices in bringing about a return to the rules of international law on the part of both Germany and Great Britain, should either of those governments care to make a proposition looking to this end, we cannot but believe Germany will concede her error in sinking the Lusitania as she did, give a guarantee against the repetition of such offenses, and then leave to later negotiations the settlement of other problems involved in the controversy.

President Wilson does not want war with Germany, nor does Germany want war with the United States. Possibly both nations have misunderstood each other. The very friendly but no less firm note of last Friday makes possible a better understanding between the two nations and there is little prospect of a sharp estrangement between countries, just as between individuals, when a candid, honest effort is made to reach a full understanding with each other. It begins to look as if Mr. Bryan, styling himself an unalterable enemy of war, has lost a splendid opportunity to help bring about peace.

HELP FOR FARMERS.

The farmers of Texas ought not to neglect to take advantage of the opportunities which are soon to be placed at their disposal as a result of recent legislation, says the Houston Post. The educational appropriation bill carried an item for the Agricultural and Mechanical College of $100,000 to be expended in two years in extension work, and to this sum is another $100,000 from the federal government to augment the state appropriation. The extension department will have, therefore, $200,000 to be expended during the next two years. That sum will enable the extension bureau of the college to extend its activities throughout the state and place the benefits of the college, or such branches of its work as are of moment to farmers, within the reach of every farmer in Texas.

The extension bureau is exceedingly anxious to aid the farmers. It is prepared to disseminate scientific information that is vital to agricultural industry. It gathers from all parts of the world the most advanced information applicable to every farm problem and spreads this useful knowledge among the people without money and without price. That is taking the college to the farms.

Such questions as plant diseases, fertility, soil conservation, humidity, seed selection, rotation, dry farming, and scores of kindred subjects are treated in plain, simple terms so that individual farmers may profit. All questions affecting livestock, poultry, dairying, horticulture, drainage, soil erosion, marketing and packing may be submitted to the extension bureau in perfect confidence that valuable information will be forthcoming.

The bureau is in exceptionally able hands, and there is no reason why the multiplicity of farm misfortunes and crop troubles should continue to harass the farmers when there is within reach help of the most valuable character.

The farmers of Texas ought to make use of this now well equipped department of the Agricultural and Mechanical College.

As compared with 1914, the building of church edifices in the United States, it is anticipated, will this year fall off about one-third. Of the $400,000,000 raised annually by the people of the United States for the support of Christian work, about $30,000,000 goes toward the erection of new church buildings. This item, it is thought, will be reduced to $20,000,000 in 1915. It is further estimated that while in the past as much as $10,000,000 has been put into new structures in a single summer, not more than $4,000,000 will be expended for this purpose during the present season. There is something characteristically American in the added statement that, while church building is going to be dull for some time to come in New England, with the possible exception of Rhode Island, and in the Middle West and South, it is going to be nearly normal in the extreme Northwest and the northern Mississippi valley, because the wheat crop was good in those sections last year, observes the Christian Science Monitor.

If Judge J. E. Yantis, the new member of the supreme court of Texas, had ever doubted that the bar of his home town and the judiciary of the state approved his elevation to the highest tribunal in Texas, he can entertain such feelings no longer. The dinner in his honor Saturday night, tendered by the McLennan County Bar Association, and attended by leading jurists and practicing attorneys of the state, was a fine tribute to the man, and the coming together of the members of the higher courts with the practicing attorneys was an experience helpful alike to the courts and the lawyers.

ABOLISHING ILLITERACY.

Spurred to special effort by the report of the United States census, which showed Alabama to have an exceptionally high rate of illiteracy, the Mobile Item is leading a very worthy campaign in the county and city of that name in the hope of reducing the number of men and women and boys and girls of scholastic age who cannot read and write, to the minimum.

Under the direction of the county superintendent of schools and with the active cooperation of civic organizations and persons who are interested in the public welfare, a careful block survey is being made in the city of Mobile in an effort to locate all the illiterates. After they have been located plans will be laid for enabling these persons to overcome their deficiencies.

It may sound like a visionary scheme to some to suggest married men and women going to night school in order to learn to read and write, but the effort is worth while not only for the sake of redeeming the good name of the state, but what is infinitely more important—providing the illiterates with at least the ability to read and write, which will make them much more efficient for whatever task they are engaged in in life and much happier and more contented and better equipped for taking their proper place in the world. The illiterate parent who learns to read and write will be much better prepared for doing his duty by his children than he was before.

With remarkable success the night school for illiterates has been carried on in the rural districts in Kentucky and as a result the educational standard in that state has been raised considerably and the people have been made much happier and more efficient. The enthusiasm and sturdy application of a woman wrought this great advance in Kentucky, if we mistake not, and what has been accomplished in the rural districts of Kentucky can be brought about in the rural districts of any other state, to say nothing of the possibilities in the cities of other states.

The people of Alabama are responding readily to the campaign inaugurated by the Mobile Item and in other sections of the state the counties are coming forward with their records of illiteracy, all of them anxious to show just as little of it as possible. The item could not serve its state in a more useful manner than by stimulating interest in this direction and we hope it will continue the campaign until there is not a man or woman or boy or girl of scholastic age in the state who cannot read and write.

BOYS IN THE WAR.

One may look with complacency on war pictures of grim-visaged and bewhiskered veterans, some of whom have seen long service and participated in other campaigns, but the presence of little boys in the ranks produces an entirely different sensation, says the Nashville Banner.

The practice obtains to some extent in Europe, where the exigency of the situation makes it imperative that any person who can shoulder a gun shall be regarded as "cannon-fodder." But more especially do the Mexican factions appear to be recruiting their ranks from the little fellows, some of whom are not more than ten years of age.

As much as this is to be deplored among those nations with which the United States has only a friendly interest, there is developed a situation with which this country is vitally interested.

The secretary of state has enlisted the assistance of secret service men to ascertain if the British government is attempting to illegally secure the enlistment of American boys. It is charged that they are induced to sail ostensibly as care-takers on British ships with horses and cattle, but the real purpose is to recruit them for the British army and navy.

The United States consul general in London has reported to Washington that he has discovered it has been the custom for British recruiting officers to board incoming steamers from America, enlist young men for the service, irrespective of their national allegiance, and to send them to England recruiting stations before the ship is docked.

Fifteen boys, ranging from fifteen to nineteen years of age, sailed on the Leyland liner Cambrian on May 8, and several others previously took passage as care-takers for horses. The federal officials wish to ascertain if an organized system of procuring American boys as English recruits has been going on here.

The ages of the boys who are induced to ship range from 15 to 19. They are not of an age at which they are expected to exercise discretion. They are naturally visionary, prospects of adventure appeal to them and without some kind of restraint the method of recruiting may become a problem of serious dimensions.

A late news item to the press reads as follows: "The May circular of the National City bank gives some interesting facts regarding the present situation in European finance, particularly that of the belligerents. It says the war loans to date stand as follows: Great Britain, $2,525,000,000; France, $1,802,400,000; Russia, $1,065,000,000; Germany, $6,491,000,000, and Austria-Hungary, $730,000,000; a total of $9,613,400,000."

Press dispatches announce that Mr. Bryan has arranged to go back into Chautauqua work. This is one field where he can operate as a top-liner and be his own boss.

Another occasion for relief to President Wilson lies in the fact that Dr. Dernburg has sailed for Germany.

Ferguson Will Wear Cotton Suit to Open the "Buy-in-Texas"

Austin, Tex., June 13.—When Governor Ferguson goes up the stage of the big Chamber of Commerce auditorium to open the "Buy-in-Texas" convention at Fort Worth June 22, he will be clothed in cotton raised on his own black land farm, made into cloth in Texas and then made into clothing in Texas.

This is partially through the courtesy of Paul K. McKenney, of McKinney, Texas, manager of the Texas Cotton Mill company and president of the Texas Cotton Mill Men's Association; and the C. R. Miller & Bros., manufacturing company of Dallas. Present McKenney wrote the publicity manager of the "Buy-in-Texas" convention at Labor Commissioner Woodman's office suggesting that this be done, offering to furnish the material for suits for the governor, the labor commissioner and probably knowing the usual condition of newspaper man's finances, also extended the offer to J. Benjamin Mabry, who is in charge of the publicity campaign.

Samples were sent by parcel post and the governor quickly decided upon McKenney Cottonade for his suit. His local tailor was interviewed for the proper measurements and today final details were closed for "building" the suits, which work will be looked after by C. R. Miller, head of the C. R. Miller & Brother Manufacturing company at Dallas.

Commissioner Woodman last night closed two weeks work visiting Texas cities in the interest of the convention and reports great interest in every place so far visited.

16,000 Men Needed for Grain Harvesting

Washington, June 13.—The division of information of the bureau of immigration, United States department of labor, has been advised by the commissioner of labor, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, that:

Sixteen thousand to eighteen thousand men will be needed this season for grain harvest—only experienced and able bodied men should apply. Wages will range from $2 to $3 per day and board. The department is informed that the vast majority of the farmers of Oklahoma who want harvest hands, prefer English speaking white men. For this reason persons other than English speaking white men who wish employment in the harvest fields of Oklahoma, should first communicate with W. G. Ashton, commissioner of labor, Enid, Okla., to find out whether or not he can secure employment for them.

It will be necessary for all persons desiring this harvest work to defray their own expenses to and from the place of employment.

Harvest hands who desire to proceed to Oklahoma should report to the state labor distribution office at Alva or Woodward, about June 15 or 20.

C. L. Green, general inspector in charge of employment and distribution work, representing the United States department of labor, will be stationed during the harvest season at room 212 Postoffice building, Kansas City, Mo. It is suggested that harvest hands who can do so without extra expense purchase tickets to destination by way of Kansas City, Mo., with stop over privileges for the purpose of calling on Mr. Green for detailed information. The services of Mr. Green and those in charge of the offices above referred to are free.

WACO COMES FROM BEHIND TO WIN

MALMQUIST DELIVERS PUNCH

Ties It Up With a Single—Conwell Wins With Home Run Over Left Field Fence.

Waco was held for five innings by Beaumont's hard flinging Wop, Joe Martina, the visitors having put across one in the first inning of yesterday's game, after which the Navigators delivered their "punch." The punch was spread out over three innings, the sixth being required to tie it, the seventh to win and the eighth—well one for good measure.

Walter Malmquist was selected to tie the affair up in the sixth with a neat single after Coyle had reached second, and the big Swede did it in the matter-of-fact way that is peculiarly his own. He again knocked in a run in the eighth for good measure and Conwell delivered with a home run over the left field fence in the eighth for the score that won.

There were no frills to the winning of the game. In fact the Navigators have reduced the winning of their games to such mathematical precision that the frills have been discarded altogether. It was a good, come from behind effort, well timed and well handled, and pleased the big Sunday crowd immensely.

Given the classy pitching that has been the rule during the present season, it home, they wouldn't just a trifle the early stages, with the breaks against them, but steadied handsomely and won out on merit.

Clifford Markle was decidedly the star of the day, striking out thirteen of Waco's crew, and deserving the credit of a shut out on an unfortunate error by Malmquist robbed him of this, but Mal paid it back with huge interest when the game came.

Markle looked good with things going against him, the ordeal of five which he withstood for the five innings, being enough to unnerve many a pitcher. Not that the Oilers were making things dangerous or threatening to walk away with the game, but Martina was pitching in winning form, and with the one run lead he looked invincible.

After Nixon had fanned in the first inning, Conwell doubled to left field. Cooke fanned, but Dodd sent one to Malmquist which the second baseman let go through, and the pitcher tried to catch Dodd off the bag and threw badly. Dodd continuing on toward third, and was thrown out by James to Conwell.

In the sixth with one out Coyle walked. Crichlow hit over second. James popped out. Malmquist being scored by Conwell. Malmquist stole but Wohlenben popped out. In the seventh Conwell knocked a home run over the left field fence.

Coyle hit the first ball pitched in the eighth for two bases to right field. Crichlow sacrificed. James was purposely walked and Malmquist hit through short, scoring Coyle. Wohlenben hit into a double.

SPORTING COMMENT

Conwell got only two hits out of three times up, one over the fence. Some slump.

Malmquist was robbed of a hit by Schwinn, who started for and held onto it. In the fourth, or the Swede would have tied it up before he did.

Markle seemed to have special antipathy toward the left-handed batters. Cooke was fanned four times in four times at bat and Robinson three out of three.

To see Al Walters handling a club from behind the bat, and to hear Archie Tanner keeping up that old "pep" talk over at short is worth the price of a game within themselves.

To see Malmquist boot one proves that the iceberg out at second is human after all. Fans almost had come to believe he was simply a machine that couldn't get out of fix.

After having run into various and sundry mines in the last few cruises the Houston Oilers are with us today, submerged and torpedoed somewhat, but still fighting for a place in the sun.

Secretary Farrell of the National Commission has officially stated that the emery ball can not be used in organized baseball. This probably will mean that some orders will soon be given in this circuit.

Old Cap Ledy is on another scouting expedition. His still hunt again is through the jungles of the Southern League. It has been announced that the San Antonio management is anxious to secure two pitchers with the Jersey City Reynolds, a catcher and a pitcher with the Nag and Harding, a pitcher with the Chattanooga club.

Reynolds was with Houston in 1911 and was sold by the Buff management to the New York Americans. He was sent to Jersey City in 1913 and played with the Skeeters two seasons.

Hille Goes to Buffs in Trade for Summers

Fort Worth, June 13.—Manager Sentele announced in Galveston that he had traded Summers for Hille of Houston. Hille will play third and Smith be traded to short.

The Panthers return home Monday. The park was still under a foot of water Sunday afternoon. It is being drained and can be played on within a day or two.

Jack Ashton Given Release by Hardy

Good old Jack Ashton is no longer a Navigator. He was given his release outright yesterday by Manager Hardy of the Waco club. Pitcher Ashton was not let go because of any lack of class, but alone for the reason that Hardy has more men than could well be carried. He had six pitchers and three catchers, Adams having brought here because of the injury to Kelly.

While with the Navigators the hard-working veteran has given the best he had to the club, and his best last year was as good as the league produced. This year he joined the club after coaching at the University of Texas in the spring and this is thought to have given him little opportunity to get into condition. He has not looked bad this season, in fact with a young catcher receiving him Saturday he pitched a great game, but lost to the Oilers.

Hardy could have peddled Jack around and secured something in the way of a sale, but he preferred to give him a chance to get a good berth. It is unlikely that he will be long without a job.

Ashton, unlike many men who have been leased, leaves the club with the best of feelings. He said last night, "I will be strong for the Waco club, and wish it all kinds of success. Hardy has treated me well. I can't blame him for letting me go with as many promising-looking youngsters on his hands. I appreciate his action in giving me my release outright. Of course if I land in this league I will try my best against the Waco club, but there will be nothing of spite in my feelings."

This expression is in accord with the spirit Ashton has ever displayed while with the Navigators. Nothing was too hard for Jack, when he was needed. With the club almost on the rocks in a pitching war for a spell last season, Jack could always go to Jack and find him ready. During that awful South Texas trip in 1914, Ashton showed true to his name. He was a steady, reliable, God-speed, and many more days in the game to which he is a credit. He is nothing like all in, and when he gets into a condition, which he gives signs of returning to, he will be valuable to anybody's club.

Clifford Markle pitched his second sensational game of the present stay at home of the Navigators yesterday when he struck out 13 Oilers batters. At the same time the clever twirler is going now he will stand well up among the league pitchers at the end of the season.

But for an unlucky error by Malmquist at second Markle would have had a shut-out game yesterday, but the fact that he struck out all batters went against him did not daunt him in the least, and he went better the longer he stayed.

There is probably not another pitcher in the league with the varied assortment of stuff that Markle has. His control, Tyler, Moran, Egan, Cather and Hughes.

Markle was the chief factor in landing both halves of the split race for the Norfolk club, the sensation of the league. But for his size he would have been drafted by a major league team but his slight physique kept the ivory hunters from taking a chance on the youngster.

He led the Virginia league pitchers with 34 victories and only 8 defeats, and administered 10 shutouts. Three of the eight defeats charged against him were due to his team failing to get next to the opposing pitcher. His most remarkable performance was the hanging up of ten straight victories as a starter. He defeated all the other teams in the six club circuit before he was stopped, downing Richmond twice, Newport once, Petersburg twice, Roanoke once, and Portsmouth twice.

Later in the season he strung up another record of ten straight victories, beginning on July 1, again defeating all the other five clubs in turn. He pitched three, Portsmouth 1, Newport News 2, Roanoke 1, and Petersburg 2. He pitched only one shut out, against five two-hit affairs, and let the opposition down with three hits on four occasions. His strike outs went into double figures four times, as he was a regular Christy Mathewson for loafing when there was no men on bases. One of his most notable performances was in allowing Richmond 11 hits and striking out 10 men, winning his game by a 3-2 score.

Just how effective he was in the tight places the number of games he won by one run margins shows, having eight victories in such games, as compared with 19 for Grimes who worked 236 innings. He offset this by ranking second in passes issued, 133 to 147 for Cochran. It run off him, as the statistics show that while he was nipped for 206 safeties he allowed only 90 runs.

Broncs and Gassers in an Even Break

Shreveport, June 13.—Shreveport and San Antonio broke even in a double-header here today, the visitors winning the first game 4 to 3 and the locals the second 3 to 2. A Newton error in the first gave the visitors their winning run after Durkin's home run with a man on second tied the score.

Manager Smith was out of the game in the second game for disputing the scores.

Clifford Markle Had a Great Record in Virginia

Clifford Markle pitched his second sensational game of the present stay at home of the Navigators yesterday when he struck out 13 Oilers batters. At the same time the clever twirler is going now he will stand well up among the league pitchers at the end of the season.

But for an unlucky error by Malmquist at second Markle would have had a shut-out game yesterday, but the fact that he struck out all batters went against him did not daunt him in the least, and he went better the longer he stayed.

There is probably not another pitcher in the league with the varied assortment of stuff that Markle has. His control, Tyler, Moran, Egan, Cather and Hughes.

Markle was the chief factor in landing both halves of the split race for the Norfolk club, the sensation of the league. But for his size he would have been drafted by a major league team but his slight physique kept the ivory hunters from taking a chance on the youngster.

"The Island of Regeneration." The deep psychology and the wide views which the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady has injected into "The Island of Regeneration," six part V. L. S. E. Photoplay with Edith Storey and a Vitagraph cast showing at the Hippodrome today, tomorrow and Wednesday, have been so clearly brought out in the screen version of the story that the production in its entirety scents of a distinct and keen judgment of human emotions.

For the reason that the picture is so well thought of, so well handled, both technically and dramatically and because it contains such real and vivid ideas, it should meet with success with any audience. Such well-chosen locations, such gorgeous light effects, such pleasing and suitable photography have rarely been equalled. The earthquake and storm scene on the desert island is superbly done. The water scenes are artistic, and the island in tranquility is beautiful with its southern vegetation and uncivilized atmosphere.

Edith Storey, first as the society girl, immune from marriage, believing she has found a true companion in Langford, goes with him for an ocean voyage on his yacht, but before long the brute in Langford asserts himself and the consequences are that Katherine leaves the vessel in the dead of night in a motor boat. She reaches the island where John Charnock has spent most of his life in solitude. He is wild and she is confronted with the task of educating him in every respect of the world.

Edith Storey invests the role of Katherine Brenton with a feeling and understanding which is at once magnetic and expressive. Her actions in teaching the man the ways of civilization are fully convincing and wonderful. She is care-free when alone as her caperings in the shady pool innocently assert. Antonio Moreno is ideally suited to the part of John Charnock. He is solidly built, and his facial expressions when he meets the girl, when he is learning civilized ways and when at last he discovers that he loves her are clear and excellently carried out. S. Rankin Drew should not be forgotten as the repentant Langford, nor should Harry Davenport, the director, the man really responsible for the picture's success.

QUEEN.

"Brother Officers." Today and Tomorrow.

"Brother Officers" is one of Harold Shaw's productions made in England, and while not centering around the European war, as many of the London Film company's offerings have, it is exceedingly interesting. Although the picture's main theme is dramatic, sufficiently so, in fact, to separate it from the comedy-drama class, there are many excellent bits of comedy in the first stages of the picture. Noticeably humorous is Hinds' debut into the elite circles of the English army. Combined with the sub-titles falling in the same part of the picture written in English slang, these scenes are genuinely laughable.

The story is based on the great friendship of two officers who served in the British army. Hinds comes from a poor family, while Pleydell is very well off. Pleydell in turn for Hinds having saved his life in the service invites him to his house, and in time he becomes very much the gentleman. Pleydell is engaged to a girl whom Hinds also loves, and when the latter learns that his benefactor is greatly in debt to a gambler, sees his chance to replace him. But after a long struggle with himself his better side triumphs and he threatens the gambler with exposure of his crooked ways unless his departure is hasty.

The cast:
The Bookmaker.....Windham Guise
The Bookmaker's Wife.....May Vaudrey
Jim Stanton, the bookmaker's clerk.....Charles Rock
John Hinds.....Henry Ainley
Colonel Stapleton.....George Bellamy
Lieutenant Lancelot Pleydell.....Gerald Ames
Lady Margaret Pleydell.....Gwynne Herbert

The Dean.....Frank Stanmore
His Wife.....Winifred Dennis

REX TODAY.

"Runaway June." Back in New York Ned Warner traces June to a certain building, and is just in time to see her surrendering herself to the impassioned embrace of Gilbert Blye. Then the door slams in front of him. Ned beats upon it in vain—it is locked. Seizing the one chair in the bare room, he splinters down the wooden panels which have cut him off from his runaway bride. Followed by the entire Moore cortege, and by the Bletherings, Ned Warner flings himself upon the man with the black vandyke. There is a terrible struggle. "Stop! Stop, Ned!" screams June, beside herself. "Don't you see—it is a motion picture studio!" And so indeed it is. The big, bare place is filled with the sickening glare of the mercurial lights. Strong arms draw Ned off the prostrate form of his victim—and then explanations follow thick and fast, while June's eyes are turned beseechingly upon her husband. At last the whole story is made clear. June has found a way to make herself financially independent as leading woman of the Blye Motion Picture Stock company. June and Ned once more are in one another's arms. And this time all separations for them are over. (This is the end of the serial.)

Fulkerson Leaves for Waterworks Meeting at Galveston

E. L. Fulkerson of the Waco city waterworks left yesterday for Galveston to attend the Southwestern Waterworks convention, which begins in that city today. Superintendent S. J. Quay of the waterworks here may go down today. Mr. Fulkerson carried with him the invitation of the city of Waco and the Young Men's Business league to the convention to hold its 1916 meeting in Waco.

Local waterworks men are not sanguine of the success of their efforts to bring the convention here next year, however, as it is thought that many of the delegates will favor holding the meeting in one of the other six states represented in the organization. Three of the four meetings since the organization of the convention have been held in Texas. Mr. Fulkerson will return immediately after the adjournment of the convention Wednesday.

MARKETS

FINANCIAL REVIEW.

New York, June 13.—The week's market registered conflict views. The future, slightly restrained by the possibility of a resumption of hostilities, was the dominant feature. The resignation of Secretary Bryan momentarily deepened the pessimism of an imminent rupture, but his opinion became more hopeful of adjustment.

Extraordinary trade conditions operated favorably on stocks. Warnings against exaggeration in reports of war came from trade authorities. The department of commerce also pointed out that the year's increase in exports was traceable to foodstuffs and decrease of manufactures, trade with non-belligerent countries, especially in the western hemisphere, showing declines. The rise of refined copper and advances in other commodities indicated the special effect of the war's demands.

United States steel may gain in importance with mill activity fully sustained gave substantial evidence of expanded business. A very considerable part of the week's business represented a renewal of speculative interest. Investment inquiry continued to show conservatism, but the best judgment is that round amounts of high grade securities have gone into strong hands recently.

COTTON MARKET.

New Orleans, June 13.—The cotton market last week displayed no very decided disposition to advance or decline. Breaks were followed by quick recovery and bulges were held down by narrow limits by the profit-taking tendencies on the long side. Opinion was unsettled and the market uncertain because of the developments in the political situation, although at the end of the week the trade had a more cheerful view of the negotiations with Germany than it has hitherto entertained. Prices closed at net gain of 8 to 12 cents over the previous week's close, the highest they were 15 to 18 cents over and at the lowest 6 to 10 cents down.

Advances concerning the new crop were highly favorable, but did not lead to a pronounced selling. The forthcoming American note to England on neutral shipping is beginning to be a factor of importance. It may vitally affect the movement of the new crop. Bulls are eagerly waiting for concessions from the allies regarding cotton shipments. Crop news will increase in importance this week because of the nearness of the second condition report of the season and the preliminary reports on acreage. Anything like heavy and continued rains would be regarded as a bullish influence of great weight.

COTTON GOODS.

New York, June 13.—There have not been many new orders for late deliveries placed by cotton goods users during the past week. Prices have held steady and the undertone is still good. The continued low price of the staple gives merchants assurance that the distribution of staple cotton goods will continue large. Should cotton advance prices will be advanced, particularly on many of the best known branded lines of domestics. The dye stuffs scarcity is restricting business in many ways. The demand for cotton duck for export has continued large. There is only a moderate call for goods for bag purposes to take the place of burlaps. The demand for wash goods and white goods improves. Many long contracts have been placed on cloths to be made for the new spring season. Prices, somewhat irregular, are quoted as follows:

Printed cloth, 24-inch 64x64's, 34c; 44x60's, 34c; 38-inch 64x64's, 44c; brown sheetings, southern standard, 11c; denim, 9 ounce, 13c; ticking, 6 ounce, 11c; prints, 54c; staple ginghams, 6c; dress ginghams, 14c.
